

The Right Buildings Team:

With support from a buildings specialist, this team co-ordinates a process of gathering soft and hard data, building inspections, workshops and vision conversations. It aims to fully consider the buildings in each participating parish, how they are currently used and other ways in which they could be used. It also looks at their sustainability.

The process takes time and requires input from people in each current parish. Team members should understand buildings, their relationship to the opportunity and needs of the local community and worshipping communities and be able to understand and make recommendations from large quantities of different types of data.
